

RopaVet Pharmaceuticals B.V. is the pet division of Ropapharm International B.V, which was established in the Netherlands in 1995 and was the pioneer in the use of oregano essential oil to improve animal health. Over the years we have acquired a solid experience in the production of veterinary feed additives, offering customers high-quality products.

With our own oregano fields in the Netherlands and Turkey, we control our product from start to finish. After harvest, plants are subjected to a steam distillation process through which the essential oil is obtained.

The effectiveness of RopaBird has been tested in several research centers, veterinary clinics and by professional breeders and fanciers of international prestige.

Why RopaBird is an effective alternative to traditional veterinary products?

RopaBird is based on oregano essential oil, the most known and used for its strong antimicrobial properties. Currently, due to preventive/misuse of veterinary drugs, bacteria are becoming resistant and antibiotics are less effective.

Preventive use of RopaBird does not create bacterial resistance (due to its complex composition) and reduces the unnecessary use of antibiotics and other drugs. And in the that case antibiotics are needed, their effectiveness will be secured.

Gastrointestinal health

Digestive Liquid & Digestive Oil

What are the benefits of using RopaBird?

The oregano essential oil is used because of its antimicrobial properties, RopaBird strengthens the intestinal bacterial flora, reducing the number of harmful bacteria while increasing the number of beneficial bacteria. RopaBird stimulates and optimizes food digestion by stimulating bile production and the secretion of enzymes in the digestive tract.

During stress, intestinal cells are damaged by a mechanism called oxidative stress and the immune system weakens, birds become more susceptible to diseases and the general health status is affected.

The oregano essential oil is a potent antioxidant, and protects the bird during stressful situations such as: presence of pathogens or toxins, times of increased physical demand and increased risk of disease transmission.

The oregano essential oil is combined with other plant/spice oils in order to increase its efficacy. RopaBird Digestive Liquid or Oil can be used in combination with the other products within the RopaBird line. RopaBird Digestive Liquid or Oil may be given throughout the whole year.
